At the Cleveland Museum of Art on Sunday April 24 at 3:45 p.m., John Robbins, reporter for the Cleveland Press, will lecture on ART IN THE JUNGLES OF SOUTHEAST ASIA. A native Clevelander, he was graduated from the University School and from Harvard University. Since his return in 1948 from military service in Europe, Robbins has been associated with the Press. In 1953, however, he commenced his extensive travel throughout southeast Asia - first as a correspondent for the Scripps-Howard newspapers and then with an Ogden Reid newspaper fellowship. Vast experience in this section of the Orient particularly qualifies Robbins to discuss his unusual topic.
